What Lower Brule Has To Offer

The Lower Brule Sioux Reservation is located in central South Dakota along the west bank of the Missouri River. The topography of the reservation is characterized by rugged breaks adjacent to the Missouri River that gradually give way to gently undulating prairie. Grasslands dominate the landscape but agriculture is prevalent in areas that are conducive. This diversity of habitat is ideal for many species of wildlife.

The hunting opportunities that exist on the Lower Brule Sioux reservation is second to none. Prairie chickens and sharp-tailed grouse are abundant. Exceptional mule and white-tailed deer are harvested annually. Pheasant hunting is world class. The reservation is located within the central flyway and at times hundreds of thousands of ducks and geese are staging in the area. Wild turkeys, which were extinct for decades, have been successfully re-introduced and are flourishing. Bison and elk have also been successfully re-introduced and provide a unique hunting experience.

The Lower Brule Sioux Tribe Department of Wildlife, Fish and Recreation has been actively managing the wildlife resources and improving habitat on the reservation for over 30 years. Population surveys are conducted annually on all game species. At the end of the hunting seasons, all hunters are sent questionnaires and asked to provide information that helps biologists determine harvest rates of game species. This information is used to develop recommendations for the following hunting season. Thousands of trees and hundreds of acres of food plots are planted annually. In addition, thousands of acres of marginal cropland has been restored to prairie in the last decade. Few agencies are managing wildlife at the level of the Lower Brule Sioux Tribe.

Lower Brule is hunting at its best. For more information, please contact the Lower Brule Sioux Tribe Department of Wildlife, Fish and Recreation at (605) 473-5666 or visit our website, www.lbst.org.

Package Hunts

Package hunts are available for a wide variety of species. Primarily, package hunts are sold for mule deer, white-tailed deer, elk and buffalo. Package hunts often begin before the regular rifle-hunting season and an experienced guide is provided.

Big Game Unit

Three thousand acres of rolling river breaks surrounded by a game-proof fence is the home for the Tribe's buffalo and elk herds. This area is specifically managed to produce trophy buffalo and elk. Our Package Hunts Include:

- Guide service, field dressing of your trophy, licenses and transportation tags.
- Your choice of hunting dates (last three choices). Hunters are scheduled to avoid crowded hunting situations.
- Transportation to and from the nearest commercial airport (Pierre or Chamberlain, SD).
- The package deer hunts are four day hunts. The buffalo hunts are two days and the elk hunts are three days. There will be extra charges if the hunt lasts longer.

Grassrope Special Hunting Unit

This unique 7,000-acre river bend area is intensively managed for crop and wildlife production. Approximately 5,000 acres of irrigated corn and bean fields provide ample surplus food for wildlife. The rest of the area is managed as wildlife habitat including shelterbelts, upland bird nesting cover and food plots. The area abounds with mule deer, white-tailed deer, prairie chickens, sharp-tailed grouse, geese, ducks, and of course, pheasants. The Tribal Wildlife Department takes great pride in this area and manages it as a trophy deer and game bird unit. Special seasons, bag limits, and hunting fees apply.

Mni Sho Sho Goose Camp

GEESE: The 2,500-acre Mni Sho Sho farm is managed for quality goose hunting. The fields attract thousands of geese daily from their nearby resting areas on the Missouri River. Pass shooting and guided decoy hunts are available and provide a unique hunting experience. Pass shooting for geese will be limited to certain dates. Transportation from the lodge to shooting blinds is provided. Call 605-223-2151 for direct contact with Mni Sho Sho during the season or call the Lower Brule Wildlife Department throughout the year for more information and to request a brochure (605-473-5666).
